Congress designated Septe "each educational institution	ember 17, 1787 signing of the United States Constitution, ember 17th of each year as Constitution Day, requiring that a that receives Federal funds for a fiscal year shall hold an United States Constitution."

We encourage students and families to read the Constitution together this week and discuss the noble principles upon which our nation's laws are based. We believe that by becoming more knowledgeable about our country's laws, we can respectfully debate and participate in advancing freedom, prosperity, and peace.

History of Constitution Day and Constitution Week

A joint resolution passed in 1956 requested that the President proclaim the week beginning September 17th through September 23rd each year as Constitution Week. In 2004, an amendment recorded as Public Law 108–477 required all schools receiving
